Dear Prison University Project:

My name is Stu Ross, CDC # H29326. I'm a student at Mt. Tam College.

If you're not placing a face to the name, you're forgiven. There are a lot of students.

(ASK Jody.)

Each time I see her, I say "Hi, Jody" in passing. And without fail, Jody responds, "Hi, you."

Whatever, Jody.)

Enough about me.

The care package—"goody bag," the term the correctional officers used on the public address system—arrived.

I have these <sup>213</sup> ~~words~~ words to say about it.

You guys rock like AC/DC!

You guys are cooler than Steve McQueen!

You guys are more beautiful than the most beautiful model on The Price is Right.

Per your request, I'm including that it's A-OK if you publish this on the website.

You guys are great—pronounced the way Tony the Tiger pronounces it!

Some delicatessen should name a sandwich after you!
A street should get renamed after you!

No, no, no. Scratch that!

A national park should get renamed after you!
—in a ceremony so ceremonious the next day
foreign news agencies report the story.

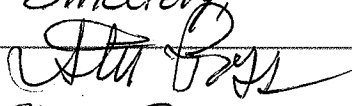

Time magazine should give you guys honorable mentions in their Person of the Year issue!
—or, at the very least, honorable mentions on the Web site.

Ben and Jerry's, with that clever wordplay everyone in the galaxy has come to love, should name ice cream flavors after you guys!

Someone with more money than sense should import 17 tons of ticker tape from Wall Street & spend the morning & the better part of an afternoon passing it out for people to throw from upper-floor windows
as you roll down the street on floats!

A-listers everyone's nuts about who without fail
put asses in the seats—say Brad Pitt & Scarlett Johansson—should play you guys/gals on the big screen!

If you're thinking this is catnip-fueled hyperbole, don't.

Sincerely

Stuart Ross
