MISSION

The mission of Mount Tamalpais College is to provide an intellectually rigorous, inclusive Associate of Arts degree program and College Preparatory Program, free of charge, to people at San Quentin State Prison; to expand access to quality higher education for incarcerated people; and to foster the values of equity, civic engagement, independence of thought, and freedom of expression.

ABOUT THE COLLEGE

Mount Tamalpais College provides a liberal arts associate of arts degree, as well as college preparatory courses in math and writing, to approximately 300 people incarcerated at San Quentin State Prison. All classes take place onsite, in regular classrooms.

A total of twenty courses in the humanities, social sciences, math, and science are required for the associates degree. See this list of degree requirements.

Instructors at the college all work as volunteers; most are faculty or graduate students at local Bay Area colleges and universities. All instructors for credit classes hold at least a master's degree in their field. The college also provides individualized tutoring, as well as student advising and support.

Mount Tamalpais College is funded entirely through donations from individuals and foundations. It receives no funding from the state or federal government.

HISTORY AND BACKGROUND

The College Program at San Quentin was originally founded in 1996, as an extension site of Patten University; the Prison University Project was formed in 2003 to support that program. Nearly twenty years later, the Prison University Project embarked on the process of becoming an independent college. In January 2022, newly named Mount Tamalpais College achieved accreditation with the Accrediting Commission for Community and Junior Colleges.

Today MTC is the nation's only independent liberal arts college whose main campus is located inside a prison, and is dedicated solely to serving incarcerated people. For further details, see Our Story.
